X. Old Yarmouth Town.

pecial Correspondence of the Intelligencer. YARMOUTH, ENGLAND, Feb. 12, 1891. 'Every night," said Mr. Peggotty, "as reg'lar as the night comes, the candle must be stood in its old pane of glass, that if ever she should see it, it may seem 'Come back, my child, come sek!' If ever there's a knock, Ham (partic'lar soft knock), arter dark, at our aunt's door, don't you go nigh it. Let it be her-not you-that sees my fallen child!"

Let it be her—not you—that sees my failen child!"

Thus, poor old broken-hearted Mr. Peggotty, to Ham Peggotty and Mrs. Gammidge, as he set forth on his weary search for the wandering little Em'ly, after the pitiful episode of her departure from the Yarmouth boat-home with Steerforth. In the whole range of English fiction there is nothing to compare with the sweetness and pathos of the joys and woes of this one scafaring family, which the master-hand of Dickens, in "David Copperfield," enduringly placed, as type of lowly loyalty and love, against the perspective of humble toil; just as Millet has fixed two peasant forms against one Breton evening gloamust as Millet has fixed two peasant valously, in complexion, hair, figure, orms against one Breton evening gloam- and in local names of places and men.

lorms against one Breton evening gloamine, for an eternal suggestion of prayer.
Without Dickens? "David Copperfield" and this one family—which we always associate in our minds with long reaches of sand-dunes, bits of wreck, splatches of ghostly spume and drift of a rather dreary and cruel shore, with a steely, measureless waste beyond, and a very dark and clammy fisher-town near at hand—Yarmouth would be unknown to-day, save for the great plump smoked herrings it sends all over the world under the name of "Yarmouth bloaters." In our youthful days, and with the uncompromising appetites of we who were "brown-faced tunicked country boys," how their subtle aroma mingled with and overcame the mysterious

Every lady can treat herself and not have to undergo the torture of instruments from physicians. Olive Blossom positively cures all forms of female weakness, such as Painful Menstruation, Ulceration, Larceration, Barrenness, Leucornhea, Pruritus, Cancer, Ovarian and Fibroid Tumors in their early stages and the long list of innumerable and unmentionable sufferings that afflict the patient. The Olive Blossom treatment is simple and harmless. The tween the mouths of the rivers and the ocean. Then the Dutch who scented trade everywhere began coming with their nick nacks and wares and exchanging them for fish. King Henry III granted permission for environing the town with water and a most, and it was leaded in the company of the compa lown with water and a most, and it was made impregnable to missile-engines then in use; but it was not defended by forts until during the Revolution, when our American privateers were so lively in their menaces if not attacks upon British ports. When the Cinque Ports of Dover, Hastings, Heythe, Romney and Sandwich, considered the keys of the kingdom from being nearest France, were instituted by William I, in 1078, and their jurisdiction vested in baron lord-wardens, such jurisdiction, but not the title, being abolished as late as 1855. Yarmouth endeavored to attain to the Yarmouth endeavored to attain to the same dignity, but only secured a sort of municipal jurisdiction through deputed ballifis of the Clinque Ports' lord-wardens. But the city secured better than a dignity in her great annual "Free Fairs," which shortly became the headquarters of hordes of Dutch traders, and eventually made Yarmouth the greatest herringmart of Eggland. Yarmouth furnished 43 sail, and 1,075 marines for the memorable siege of Calais; and it was here that was fitted out the beautiful ship sent to Norway to bring to England the king's daughter for marriage to Prince Edward, afterwards King Edward II. Among the strange customs of the old Yarmouth endeavored to attain to the state the cold truth, though it cuts Edward, afterwards King Edward II.

Among the strange customs of the old give now were more curious than the mode of electing the mayor, high steward, recorder, sub-steward, and other municipal officers, which was only changed as late as the middle of the present century. An inquest of twelve persons was formed by placing the names of 24 freemen into four hats. Then a person called an "Innocent," usually a child, drew three names from esch of the four hats. These twelve persons formed the inquest; and they were literally incarcerated in the city hall without meat, drink, fire or candle" until nine of them agreed upon the first strant of Red Clover, so went to the first strant of Red Clover to. until nine of them agreed upon the nuncipal officers; and there was no ap-peal from, or contest arising out of, this

The Dutch have left their mark plain-The Dutch have left their mark plaintly upon old Yarmouth. Indeed one will ind similar traces of continental influences, though very old and remote, in a number of the seaports of Great Britain. In Berwick, Scotland, and in many of the fishing villages of the Firth of Forth, as well as in old Edinburgh itself, you will find a type of lace, manner, and occasionally suggestions in ancient architecture, which point straight and true to progenitors and builders from the Norman French. At Plymouth and Penzance, in Cornwall, the old Hebrow strain is clearly descernable, though the Jews were never in Cornwall in numbers less than 800 years ago, when they found a source of wealth in the tin of the Cornish mines. Up in Aberdeen, Scotland, the Norse blood still tells marvelously, in complexion, hair, figure, and in lead reason of places and men.

Little Things That Tell.

Little Thiegs That Tell.

It is the little things that tell—little brothers for instance, who hide away in the parlor while sister entertains her beau, etc. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Fellets y are little things that tell. They tell on the liver and tone up the system. So small and yet so effectual, they are rapidly supplanting the old-style pill. An infallible remedy for sick and billous headaches, billiousness and constipation. Put up in vials, convenient to carry. Their use attended with no discomfort.

A Fatal Mistake.

Physicians make no more fatal mistake than when they inform patients that nervous heart troubles come from the stomach and are of little consequence. Dr. Franklin Miles, the noted Indians specialist, has proven the contrary in his new book on "Heart Disease," which may be had free at the Logan Drug Co.'s, who guarantees and recommends Dr. Miles' unequaled New Heart Curc, which has the largest sale of any heart remedy in the world. It cures nervous and organic heart disease, short breath, fluttering, pain or tender ness in the side, arm or shoulder, irregular pulse, fainting, smothering, dropsy, etc. His Restorative Nervine cures headach, fits, etc. THEAW-2 FINDLAY, OHIO, May 6th, 1890.
